Highways 41 & 646

Improvements now underway

Two highways in the Elk Point area which have been of major concern to local motorists are both undergoing major improvements this summer.

The long awaited widening of Highway 41 from Elk Point to the junction of Highway 28 got underway last week, with crews presently removing trees and fences along the stretch, and moving underground installations to permit the necessary excavation work.

The $1,356,726 contract was awarded to Everall Construction of Edmonton.

Alberta Transportation and Utilities Minister Al "Boomer" Adair said that the contract will provide for 6.4 kilometres of upgrading on the highway, and will involve widening of the highway and new base paving, "to make this busy section of highway safer for all motorists."

Work has also commenced on just over 12 kilometres of Secondary Highway 646 which are in the process of being prepared for base course paving, with the County of St. Paul in charge of this project. The stretch which will be paved this year reaches from Highway 41 west to the Stoney Lake area.

The completion of both projects is eagerly awaited by local residents, who have lobbied the government and circulated petitions several times with a view to getting these improvements on stream.

Grain crops suffering

Last Tuesday's thunder-showers dumped a considerable amount of water on the town of Elk Point, turning streets into rivers and battering gardens with small hailstones during the hour long storm. However, the storm provided much needed rain for only a few areas of the Elk Point district, with rainfall amounts varying considerably from place to place. Farms only a short distance apart received anything from a brief sprinkle to close to 4 centimetres of rain.

Conditions throughout the area are still very dry, and crops are barely hanging on. The extremely high temperatures of the Heritage Day weekend have further parched the fields. Available Soil moisture conditions are poor, and current estimates of the possibility of a good crop have dwindled to only 60 percent for wheat and canola and 50 percent for barley and oats. All wheat crops are now filling, along with 95 percent of barley, while 15 percent of canola is in the podding stage.

The 30 degree plus temperatures are, however, good for curing hay, and many fields of forage are being baled in prime condition, without rain delays, as farmers follow the old adage to "make hay while the sun shines."

Crash!

We didn't have to go looking for news this week--this accident happened right outside our door, at the corner of 30 Avenue and Highway 41 last Wednesday, when a moving van was in collision with a car, which ended up neatly parked against a tree, right by a "No Parking" sign. No injuries resulted from the crash, however there was considerable property damage, and one man was charged following the accident.

It's fair time!

This is the weekend that gardeners, good cooks and craftspeople have been waiting for all summer--Elk Point Fair goes Friday and Saturday of this week at the Elks Hall.

The next few days will be busy ones for exhibitors, as they finish the final touches on their knitting, sewing, crochet and crafts, seek out the finest vegetables, fruit and flowers from their gardens, pick the most uniform heads of grain from their fields, search out their best photos, or retype their most expressive creative writing. Friday morning will see a flurry of activity as all the fair tags are written upon and affixed to the entries, ready for Friday afternoon's trip to the Elks Hall. Then, there's the anxious wait for exhibit viewing time, when each exhibitor will check out how his or her entries rated against the others on display.

Entries will be accepted from 12:00 noon to 3:30 p.m. on Friday, with each exhibitor paying a $1 fee, whether they have one item or a hundred to enter. This $1 also gives the exhibitor a ticket to view the Fair on Saturday. Judging will take place Friday evening.

The Fair will open to the public at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, with the presentation of prizes and awards at 7:00 p.m., and closing at 8:00 p.m. Coffee and snacks will be served all afternoon. All exhibits must be removed between 8:00 and 8:30 p.m.

In conjunction with the Fair, a sale of arts and crafts will take place in the Pioneer Circle Hall from 1:00 to 6:00 p.m. Saturday afternoon. Organizers Sharon Kuhn and Carol Hellquist report that some very interesting crafts will be available, including etching on moose antlers, stencilled woodwork, hand-painted porcelain and fabric earrings, earrings and other small items made from caragana and lilac wood, wooden toys and household items, flower arrangements, fans, gemology, and the organizers' own lines of t-shirts and homemade cosmetics and soaps.

It's sure to be an interesting weekend.

See you at the Fair!

Grand Opening For Turbo

Terry and Lee Ann Wozniak display their "giveaways" in their newly opened Turbo bulk fuel outlet in Elk Point, during their Grand Opening last Tuesday.

Wozniak Turbo Bulk

A new enterprise in town

By Irene Magnusson

Terry and Lee Ann Wozniak were proud to host the Grand Opening of their new venture, the Turbo Bulk and Cardlock distribution centre, east of Highway 41. Turbo is new in Elk Point, but has been in operation in the western provinces for a dozen or so years.

The event started with a Lubrication Seminar, in the Elks Hall, in the forenoon of July 31, with a discourse on fuels and lubricants given with a slide display by John Oakes of Calgary, Senior Technical Specialist for Turbo, in charge of development and promotion of lubricants and oils. Turbo is a western Canadian owned and operated company, based in western Canada.

There is a large refinery in Balzac, Alberta, opened in 1982, which is presently undergoing an $ 18 million upgrading, to accommodate the new rulings of lead-free fuels. Oakes explained the pros and cons of lead in gasoline, and the many adjustments which must be made to ensure that the new lead-free gasolines 'work' well, and do not damage or make less efficient the engines using them, especially the older ones. Besides all automotive uses, these fuels are used in farm machinery and boats, etc.

The seminar went on through explanations of length of storage for gasoline and diesel fuels, to FloRite/Red Ram oils, to various grades of oils, what 'dirty oil' means, to use in tractors, trucks, etc. The presentation was very informational, especially for anyone operating a gas powered motor of any kind.

At the end of the presentation, free caps, key chains and snacks were offered, along with a draw for a giant teddy bear. This was won by Mrs. Pauline Kadutski.

The action then moved from the hall over to the location of the new Turbo outlet, east of the present Texaco bulk fuel station, on Highway 41. A large 'circus' tent was set up, a welcome shelter from the hot sun of early afternoon. Here hot beef-on-a-bun was served, with coffee, cold drinks and ice cream on the side, to all comers, and it was a fair sized crowd who came and went throughout the afternoon, to visit the new office, with congratulatory bouquets decorating the table, filled with more gifts of caps, chains and mugs.

Terry and Lee Ann Wozniak are to be congratulated for their enterprise in starting up this new dealership, their aim to supply a good product, to fill a perceived need for Elk Point and district.

The tanks and pumps are shiny new, with ample parking space, and Terry, who has worked with his parents in a similar enterprise for some time, will be experienced and diligent in filling his customers' needs, Lee Ann a cheerful and ready partner.

A draw was conducted at the end of the day, with gifts of a large Turbo teddy bear going to Stacey Lefebvre, small teddy bears to John Lafrance and John Yaremkevich, Turbo jacket won by Don Taylor and the miniature Turbo gas pump won by Pete Stafford.

Poitras descendants salute their heritage

Well over 400 members of the Poitras family, representing close to a hundred families, gathered near the shores of Kehewin Lake for a Heritage Day weekend family reunion which celebrated the growth of their family in Canada since Jean Poitras emigrated to the new land from France in 1640.

The colorful history of the far-flung family shows that, a century and a half later, his descendant Andre Poitras ventured west with the fur trade to the North West Company's Fort Esperance, near the site of present-day Spy Hill, Saskatchewan. One of Andre's 8 children, Pierre, sat on the Provisional Government of Louis Riel in Manitoba in 1870, later coming westward in the Metis exodus. Pierre and two of his sons, Elzear and Francois, settled for a while in Maple Creek, Saskatchewan, with Pierre later moving to Duhamel, Alberta, while another son, David, settled in the North Battleford area where many of his descendants still live.

Elzear and Francois were among the numerous settlers to head to northeastern Alberta in 1896 when Father Lacombe established a Metis settlement at St. Paul. They came with 300 cattle and 200 horses, far more than could be accommodated on the two quarter sections of land that they, as heads of households, were qualified to receive as part of the settlement. Francois took up a homestead southwest of Lafond, while Elzear homesteaded near Lac Bellevue.

Francois ranched and hauled freight for the settlement, but Elzear turned businessman and built the first store, the first livery barn and the first hotel in St. Paul. His son Theodore and Maggie Laframboise were the first couple whose wedding was celebrated in the new community.

Francois and one of his sons, Joseph, moved to Meadow Lake, Saskatchewan, where they established a large ranch. Another of his sons, Francois Jr., moved to the Elk Point area in 1929, where many of his descendants still live today.

Members of the huge, far-flung family came from as far as Derby and Buffalo, New York, Rae Edzo and Yellowknife, NWT, and from various locations in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, British Columbia and Alberta, for the gathering. This is the third reunion to take place at the site, the home of Lloyd and Mary Poitras, previous reunions having been held in 1983 and 1986.

This year's gathering followed the tradition of the previous two, with a variety of activities, races, games, tug-of-war, horseshoes, and more, taking place in the spacious fields ringed with campers, trailers, motorhomes and one covered wagon. By Saturday afternoon, many family members sported caps or t-shirts bearing the Poitras coat of arms, as they browsed through the family photo albums or traced their particular branches on a color coded family tree showing six generations, starting with Pierre, or studied a second family tree dating back to the 1600s.

After a huge cook-your-own-steak supper, topped off with a cake decorated as a map of Canada, most of those present gathered for a brief program. Lloyd and Mary Poitras, who have hosted the reunions, were presented with an engraved plaque honoring their efforts, by their niece, Doreen Hays. Mr. Poitras said the gatherings had started out as "only a little dream" but had come a long way. He said he is looking forward to reunions over another hundred years, and joked that he might just be there that long from now. His wife added that she "would like to see the younger generation take an interest" in the reunions and "keep it going" in the future.

Scrolls and sashes were presented to each of the elders who attended the reunion: Lillian Poitras, Dewberry, Enoch Poitras, Fort Qu'apelle, Saskatchewan, Dora Poitras Flamond, Olds, Margaret Poitras, Elk Point, Flavia Poitras Larocque and Jules Larocque, Boggy Creek, Manitoba, Richard Poitras and George Poitras, Paddle Prairie, Murdock Poitras, Penticton, BC, Fred Poitras, Ashmont, Larry Poitras, Buffalo, New York, Dorial Poirier, Lucy Stonechild, Agnes Pelletier, Allan Calliou and Olivine Ogle.

Each elder then designated a member of their particular branch of the family to introduce those present from that group, before the focus turned to entertainment by some talented family members.

Feast Makers

Val, Betty and Marie Poitras, all wives of members of the Elk Point branch of the Poitras family, presided over the barbecues as preparations for the cook-your-own-steak supper got underway.

In Our View

Entertainment from the library?

It's lurking there...on the shelves of your very own local library...and you could be lured into picking it up and taking it into your home, where instead of educating you or giving you more insight into culture, it might (gasp! shiver!) ENTERTAIN you!

Many of us never thought of it quite that way before last Friday, when Minister of Culture Doug Main expressed in an interview in a daily paper that Alberta's taxpayers are footing the bill for items of an entertaining nature for libraries, such as paperback books, records, tapes, and novels that people may take home and read instead of watching TV. He feels that this form of entertainment should be paid for by those who are entertained.

It is. We, the taxpayers of Alberta, are the people who go to those libraries and borrow the "entertaining" items, right along with the books on how to prune our roses, how to do Ukrainian cross stitch, farming magazines that tell us what the latest developments are, and books that relate the history of civilization. We may, indeed, read the lighter items, as well as the informative ones, rather than watching summer reruns or hair-raising murder mysteries.

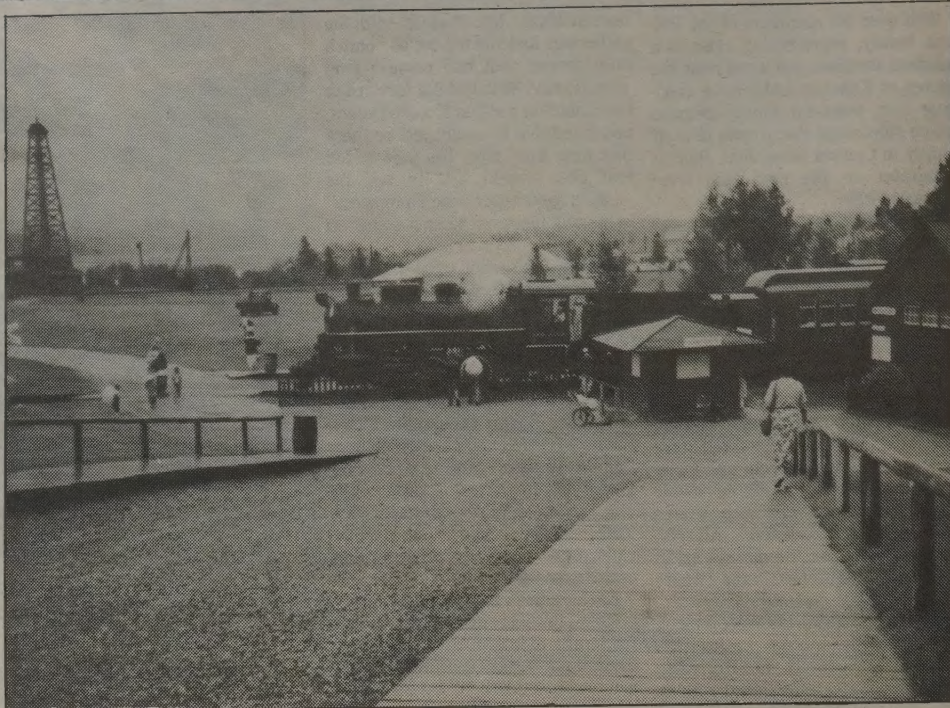

Albertans are inveterate library users, and have caused libraries everywhere to increase their hours and the size and scope of their collections. It boggles the mind to consider what percentage of these people would still use the library, if there were nothing there to be borrowed but educational and cultural materials. That figure might be so small and insignificant that the government would look askance at spending all that money to keep libraries open at all.

This is the International Year of Literacy, a year in which literacy must be encouraged by whatever means it takes. It is far better to have teenagers reading paperback novels than sitting in an arcade playing video games, and for senior citizens to have novels in not only English, but their language of their homeland, to read instead of drowsing in front of the soap operas and game shows. No child is even going to WANT to learn to read if there is nothing but school books to whet his or her appetite for reading. And, as for the balance of the population, we would get very bored with nothing but cook books, bringing up baby, and how to build a birdhouse to read in our leisure hours.

Libraries are a wonderful source of knowledge and entertainment that virtually everyone can afford to enjoy. To know that something this worthwhile is paid for with taxpayers' money, makes it a little less painful to pay those taxes. We, the taxpayers, need to know that something we can enjoy is coming back to us from those dollars we have no choice about spending.

Long live libraries--WITH their full complement of materials both informative and entertaining, to fill the needs of all Albertans, now and in the future.

The Age Of Steam Trains

Heritage Park, Calgary, takes visitors back to the days of steam trains, wooden sidewalks and red clapboard railway stations with their displays of yesteryear.

Alberta Trails

Speaking of our heritage

By Irene Magnusson

HERITAGE: noun. 1. Property that is or can be inherited. 2. Any condition or culture which is allotted or handed down to one, as by ancestors. 3. The chosen people of God, as the Israelites or the Cristian elect. Thus is the definition in my largest dictionary. We have just remarked a "Heritage Day"--hopefully with rejoicing and thankfulness, as we take note of the many things we have inherited, from our past, our ancestors and our culture.

Almost every peoples are aware of their heritages, the wisdom, inventions, mores, customs, even dress, hairstyles, mode of housing, given names, and much more. Mostly these inherited facts and artifacts are revered and respected, and an attempt is made to preserve these heritages for posterity.

All this is a big long lead-in to the trip I was fortunate enough to be invited on last week, a visit to Calgary, and in the course of our visit, a few hours spent in Heritage Park while there. I'm sure it's been there forever--but I have not been aware of it. Perhaps there are a few others who have also missed this pleasure.

Having been made aware of its existence by Vicki Brooker, who claims Calgary as her home town, and handed a few brochures from the Tourist Booth, I was ready to promote a visit to the Park, when the time was right. In one way, all worked out well, for we found the park handily on our way to where my grandson lives, so were able to find our way back to it with no trouble. In another way, it was a poor choice, for it persisted in raining most of the day we were bent on exploration, so we got wet.

Heritage Park is a Historical Village, situated at 1900 Heritage

Drive, S. W., in Calgary. Cuddled against the eastern curves of the Glenmore Reservoir, a lake created, fed and drained by the Elbow River, and dotted with sailboats, Heritage Park is devoted to the preservation of the old Railroad era, although there are many other things around.

Our first glimpse of the park was of a large sign proclaiming itself, and a much larger train engine, partly covered in tarpaulins, on a bit of track, right by the street, with a hill rising behind it, part of the 66 acres which comprises the park.

Later, when we went back for a more thorough look, we entered through a palisade wall, where we purchased tickets. Several gift and souvenir shops were handily nearby.

Down the steps we went, to the railway station, where we bought our tickets for the ride in the vintage railway car. I was surprised to find hard board benches lining the sides and down the centre, fortunately well polished, and despite the rain, well loaded with passengers. I had forgotten the tales of the settlers coming to Alberta, riding the "hard wood benches" for days on end, of the trains of the turn of the century. I thought of the trains of my early years, and always there had been well-padded seats, reversible, so we could talk to our group if we wished.

The windows were good, and we rumbled along, past the merry-go-round, full of dripping swings and no kids, past the cattle, the horses, the barns. We decided to tackle some exploring, despite the rain, so got off at the station and wandered about.

There was a blacksmith shop, with many tools and equipment of the past, the neckyoke, singletrees and doubletrees of wagon and buggy days. The blacksmith in attendance made sparks fly from his molten metal with his hammer, after drawing it white-hot from the forge.

On we went, along a wooden sidewalk, ducking into various olden days shoppes, some with very realistic models of workers of past days.

These shops have been either gathered from real life, moved and restored, or else replicas of great authenticity created. The street between the rows of buildings is quite modern and paved.

We visited a hotel, with an upstairs ballroom, and realistic rooms-with-occupants, sealed off, but quite viewable. There is a stone house, built only a few years ago, yet so realistically that one wouldn't know, all furnishings and fittings reflecting a home perhaps of the 1890s. Further along was a brick house, which we were told was of the past century, all 2500 bricks numbered, dismantled and relaid, in its move from 'there' to 'here.' One of these homes had a square grand piano, very large and unusual, which I laid hands on, and it sounded brand new, a good, clear tone. Tiny iceboxes were part of the kitchen furnishings, causing some young viewers to wonder how they "made the ice" to put in them.

Our few hours at Heritage Park was by no means long enough to view all the displays, for it is a large area, and well worthy of careful study. These were the tools of our ancestors, their artifacts, their homes and places of business. Perhaps one day I will go there again, and have a more leisurely and extended view of all on display, for it would seem well worth it. We did spend some time in the roundhouse, viewing passenger cars of yesteryear. Here were railcars used by the Queen, Prime Ministers, and a U. S. President. Tiny spaces, yet suited to cross our vast country in comfort.

Ludwigs return to 1914 homestead

In the three quarters of a century since she, her parents and brothers left their homestead on Moose Mountain, just up the hill from Kehewin Lake, Dorothy Ludwig Smith has lived in Radisson, Maymont, Borden and Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Los Angeles and San Pedro, California. This past weekend, she returned to the site of her childhood home as part of the 1990 Ludwig Reunion.

For her brother Russell, of Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, it was the first glimpse of the land his parents, Rudolph and Emily Ludwig, had cleared and broken back in 1913.

For both, it was a memorable and moving experience to roam the forest fringed clearing, with the cellar hole from the old log cabin, the well their father had dug by hand, the rhubarb plants their mother had planted. It wasn't entirely as Dorothy remembered, however. She recalled sledding down to the lake shore in the winters, and "In my mind, the lake was right here" rather than close to a mile away.

The story of the Ludwigs' travels in the early days of settlement is one of people seeking a land of promise and hope for the future. The family started out in Burlington, Vermont, where Dorothy was born, and from there, came to Edmonton. The family found that ways of earning a living in that young city were few, and their dire straits brought them to try homesteading in the Moose Mountain area.

Homesteading in northeastern Alberta, however, was not for Rudolph Ludwig. "He hated it here—he thought people were crazy to try and live where there were such cold winters." After about two years of unrewarding toil, he packed up his family and they worked their way to Saskatoon, stopping for a time in Radisson, Maymont and Borden to earn sufficient money to continue their journey. In Saskatoon, he went to work for the T. Eaton Company, and started putting aside money for train fare to California. During the six years it took to amass this sum, the family grew by three more sons, one of whom was Russell. Eventually, Rudolph's dream of moving to California came true. Arriving in that more agreeable climate, he purchased a large army surplus tent and established his family in it while he built them a house. In 1923, the Ludwigs moved a few miles to San Pedro, where their father became the top life insurance salesman in the area, and built houses in his spare time.

The senior Ludwigs did, eventually, return to see the land they had wrested from the forest. In 1946, they were the first of the family to make the pilgrimages which have continued periodically since that time. Along with their son Al, they came to find the cabin they had built had been partially destroyed by a fire, and the barn gone completely. They camped along the lake, and then journeyed back across the North Saskatchewan River by ferry, and on to Saskatoon for a look at their former home there.

Several of the other sons had also been to see the old homestead over the years, and returned home to tell their children about the visit. These stories, along with tales of life on the homestead, caught the interest of Larry Ludwig of Washington, DC, son of Harvey. Through correspondence with the various members of his family and with Sid Holthe of Elk Point, a family reunion was arranged for August, 1987. At that time, Larry, his mother Frances De La O, his sisters Lynne Roe and Leslie McPherson and their daughters, Lynne's husband Jim, and Russell Ludwig's daughter Sandi Lehnhard and her daughter Tanya visited the site and were welcomed by a number of Elk Point area residents.

Sandi, Tanya and Larry were back again this time, bringing with them, in addition to her father, Russell, and their aunt Dorothy, Sandi's husband Steve and their other daughter Taryn of Ontario, California, Sandi's brother Leonard and his children Stacey and Stephen, of Alta Loma, California, Dorothy's daughter Jacquelyn Ludwig, of Renton, Washington, and John Ludwig's son Howard, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Those who could not attend the reunion in person sent letters, which were read as part of the program at the homestead on Saturday, August 4. Messages from Al, who brought his parents back here in 1946, the widow and children of the oldest Ludwig son, Rudy, John and his wife Jerri, Harvey Ludwig, and 1987 visitors Frances De La O, Lynne and Jim Roe, were read by those present. Each letter reflected the impact that the two brief years spent by the Ludwigs on the homestead, has had on their lives, through the tales of those days and the visits to the site in later years.

Sid Holthe once again acted as Master of Ceremonies for the program, welcoming those here for the

Back At The Homestead

Three generations of Ludwigs came to the 1914 homestead of Rudolf and Emily Ludwig on the forested slopes of Moose Mountain to celebrate their heritage with a family reunion.

"DISTILLED WATER IS ESSENTIAL FOR GOOD HEALTH," CLAIMS BONNYVILLE FAMILY

"Water is the main flushing system in your body," says Peter Ference of Bonnyville, Alberta. "I believe in order to maintain good health you must drink pure water. I now have this thanks to the Springtime water distiller from Big Iron Drilling."

Peter and his wife Mary, shown here, at their home in Bonnyville, Alberta, do all their cooking with distilled water. "The look and taste of the food is just great," says Peter, "I enjoy my food more and it's helping me stay healthy."

Peter and Mary Ference

"We read brochures and ads on the Springtime water distiller," says Peter. "Compared to fan-operated distillers the Springtime was definitely far better." It's fully automatic with no noisy fan. Its self flushing system puts cleaning at a minimum and operates at about half the cost of fan-cooled distillers.

Peter and Mary have five children. They have made their home in Bonnyville for several years. Peter works as a security guard for the Bonnyville R.C.M.P. and Mary is on the hospital auxiliary. They both enjoy gardening, crafts or any kind of outdoor work.

"We don't like making medical claims about distilled water," says Ray Field, manager of Big Iron Drilling, "we're in the water treatment business, not the medical business. But it's amazing how many people claim to feel better when they drink distilled water. Doctors encourage adults to drink eight glasses of water per day, but that's pretty difficult when the water tastes horrible."

"The town of Bonnyville is drawing their water from an open lake adjacent to town," says Ray Field "and many people are concerned about the quality of their drinking water, especially after the necessary treatment the town must go through to get it to the kitchen tap."

"We would not even consider being without our Springtime water distiller," says Peter. "I would recommend for anyone to call Big Iron Drilling and purchase one today."

If you have any problems or questions with your present water supply, give Big Iron Drilling a call and we will test your water for free.

HEALTH AND WELFARE CANADA SAYS: "The appropriate health authorities should be notified when the sodium concentration exceeds 20 mg/L." (Guidelines for Canadian Drinking Water Quality 1978, Pg. 46).

The Springtime Distiller is ideally designed to handle difficult problems typically found in well, town or city water.

Dorothy Comes Home

Dorothy Ludwig Smith returned to her childhood home last Saturday after more than 75 years. Her brother Russell came all the way from Rio De Janeiro, Brazil for the Ludwig reunion, while his granddaughter Stacey came from Alta Loma, California to see her great-grandparents' homestead.

Return Engagement

Those who enjoyed Tanya Lehnhart's songs at the 1987 Ludwig Reunion were pleased to see her back again, this time accompanying her song with the words in sign language.

first time and those returning for a second visit. He noted that pilgrimages to the home of ancestors are "somewhat spiritual in some societies," and prophesied that "every Ludwig who walks on this farmstead cannot help but be altered by the experience."

Irene Lindquist, whose forbears were the pioneer Ludwig's neighbors, read a letter written for the 1987 reunion by the late Mary Bennett and Kay McAleese, which took the form of a letter home, such as would be written by a farm wife to her faraway family in those bygone days. Mrs. Lindquist and her husband George also brought along venison stew and a rhubarb dessert for the old-style reunion supper.

Tanya Lehnhart, who entertained with her singing at the 1987 reunion, was again on the program, this time offering "Love In Any Language," in both song and signing. She then announced a second song, which turned out to be "Happy Birthday" for five year old Stephen Ludwig, great-grandson of the settlers.

In addition to the Saturday afternoon gathering at the homestead, the group enjoyed a kickoff breakfast at the Empress, visits to the historical mural, an elk farm, the Kehewin Reserve, Fort George Museum, Fort George-Buckingham House site and the Canadian Salt Plant, and a fish fry at Sid and Muriel Holthe's cabin at Muriel Lake. On Sunday, the Ludwigs set off to visit another part of their family's past: Saskatoon.

Happy Birthday, Stephen

Stephen Ludwig celebrated his fifth birthday at the forest clearing which was homesteaded by his great-grandparents over three quarters of a century ago.

Remember how busy you were last August?

It won't be any different this year. Spare time can be hard to come by when you're seeding your fall rye and winter wheat.

Insuring your fall sown crops early saves you one more thing to do at the end of this month and protects against losing your investment to weather-related damage next year.

District offices of Alberta Hail & Crop Insurance Corporation have full information about rates and coverage for insuring fall rye and winter wheat grown anywhere in Alberta.

What's news at the library?

Another week of the summer has flown by and with it another week of the Summer Reading Program. And what a successful week it has been! Both the elementary and preschool kids enjoyed forming and decorating cookies. They also delighted in eating their cookies afterward.

Last week, a good crowd turned out to see the two movies shown. We would like to see another good turnout this Thursday at 3:00 p.m. for Rebecca Of Sunnybrook Farm, featuring the immensely popular Shirley Temple!

NEW BOOKS:

Flying Start-In this book, one of the most distinguished fighter pilots of World War II, Group Captain Sir Hugh Dundas, writes of his wartime experiences in a life lived so close to death.

Hitler's Generals-Correlli Barnett

has gathered an outstanding team of military historians to document the characters and careers of Hitler's generals. This book provides the insight of the generals' response to serving Adolf Hitler, from blind faith and obedience for the sake of the fatherland.

Mary Pickford From Here To Hollywood-For some sixty years, the name Mary Pickford has given the public an image of golden curls and innocence. In this first major biography of Hollywood's first superstar, film critic Scott Eyman looks behind the scene and reveals a woman fifty years ahead of her time.

Shelterbelt by Mary Ann Seitz. In this novel, Fryna, the only girl in a Ukrainian farm family with nine boys, quickly develops a resentment of the role tradition has demanded of her.

For our mystery fans, a collection of Lawrence Sanders paperback books were donated. Some of the titles are: Love Songs, The Timothy Files, Timothy's Games, The Eighth Commandment, The Dream Lover and The Loves of Harry Dancer. Another donated book is by the mystery author Mary Higgins Clark, While My Pretty One Sleeps. The Elk Point Library would like to thank the public for donating their unwanted books to our collection.

In the library's music cassette collection, three new music cassettes are: Back To The Future by Allen Toussaint Orchestra, Ravel: Bolero by the London Symphony Orchestra and Cry Like A Rainstorm-Howl Like The Wind by Linda Ronstadt.

Everyone Welcome!!

Thank You

THANK YOU FROM THE BROWNS

We would like to express our deepest heartfelt thanks to all those people who helped our family on Canada Day. Many special people showed their kindness and thoughtfulness and acted fast in a time of a tragedy.

Thank you to the doctors, the very kind nursing staff and the ambulance attendants of the Elk Point Municipal Hospital. A big thank you to those people who visited, phoned, sent flowers, fruit baskets, toys, cards, their love, and blessings. This all helped to make our hospital stay more homey. Our hearts are smiling now that our little Jasmine is smiling once again.

May God bless you all.

Mel, Iris, Charissa,
Travis and our little Jasmine

Starscope

By Eileen Norby

We have been talking about Leo and the Sun. Do you know how dangerous the Sun can be? 1) Sunlight coming through a window can do damage. 2) Little babies less than six months old should not be allowed in the Sun at all. 3) Sunburn can scar the skin; always use from 15 to 30 sun-screen protection against the Sun's rays. Summer is to enjoy, Leo; with your positive attitude you always seem to be where the action is. Lots of summer barbecues, outdoor "fun in the Sun". Travel heads your list this year. You love to mingle with people, especially different languages and cultures. You may even make trips to religious sites as well. All signs point to success in love, work and play. The time is right, it's your oyster, just waiting for you and the good times. You are emotionally tough and very self-reliant. You carry yourself in a proud, dignified manner, even when things don't go your way. Keep a watchful eye on finances and get out of that rut you've let yourself sink into; re-establish yourself at the centre of things, the purest form of Leo. People are attracted to your kind of warmth and light. You like to gamble, but only in that it is an extension of personal will in an attempt to influence chance. Wherever there is optimism and confidence, there is the spirit of Leo. The Sign of the Lion, Leo people are proud, confident, lazy, generous and an inspiration to us all with their loyalty.

Aries

Romance will have top priority this month. Grab your soulmate and escape on a fun-filled getaway. Reignite those love sparks, reach for the highest star. You are like a magnet, drawing people to you because your attitude is positive. Who can say no?

Taurus

Don't be afraid to go to new places. You are in an awful rut. Let friends help you, just follow their lead. One of these days you'll find your life will do a complete turnaround. You'll be free! The full Moon gives you a strong determination to win.

Gemini

A misunderstanding with your mate will quickly pass over. The holiday weekend was exciting and full of surprises. It will kick off a new cycle for you, professionally and financially. You will come to a parting of the ways with a friend. Focus on love.

Cancer

Ah! You are in the spotlight. Everything is in your favor. You played a hunch and won. It was a laid-back weekend for you. Life is on an upswing, full of surprises. Look to one who loves you and is always helpful. Problems can be solved easily with rationality and calmness.

Leo

You will have a brief encounter with a new love interest. You're still on that domestic trend. You're content to keep the home fires burning. Be open to suggestions, but don't be taken in. Your mood is sunny and that helps your tension. Summer is your time.

Virgo

You take a very conservative approach to having fun. You're often reluctant to take the time off. When you do splurge, you stay strictly within the budget. Let yourself enjoy life more. Weekend jaunts to picnic sites, the lake, are very inexpensive.

Libra

The Full Moon in Libra shines its radiance on you. It's okay to flaunt your abilities, but keep calm if you get no immediate reaction. You'll get even greater fun out of your impromptu parties. Your activities are exciting, that's why others like to join in.

Scorpio

Since you can be said to be a workaholic, you find it very difficult to unwind. You actually feel guilty about it. You need every minute of your day accounted for. Set these feelings aside and try a little fun on for size. "Spur of the moment" is fun.

Sagittarius

Since you love outdoor activities, you know how to get the most out of summer. An excellent time to follow through on creative artistic expression, but don't let it distract you from the important things in life. No tittle-tattle under the stairs!

Capricorn

Although it's a good time to act on impulse, you must also let your conscience be your guide. Someone close will keep your emotions revolving. A very good time to plan a quiet period with your loved ones. You're still out front and will finish there.

Aquarius

Your energy has flown out the window, yet you have a lot of tasks to accomplish. Focusing on the good and beautiful aspects of your life carries with it a guarantee of a feeling of self-worth and well-being.

Pisces

The Full Moon has certainly boosted your popularity. You may have more than one invitation to choose from. It was a so-so holiday, not what you expected or wanted. Spending a few hours with elderly relatives will give you pleasure.

DAY CARE REFORMS

For Information
Call 1-800-661-9691

Important reforms to the Alberta Day Care Program have been announced. These reforms are the culmination of public input on proposals contained in the White Paper on reforms to Alberta's Day Care Program.

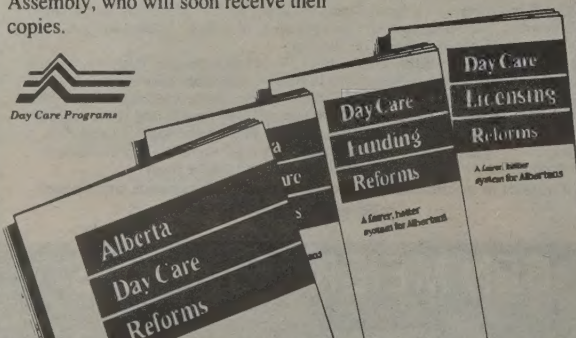

Four brochures explain different aspects of the reforms and are available upon request. Check below and telephone for the one that seems best suited to your needs.

- Highlights - Day Care Reforms - provides a basic summary of the reforms.
- Alberta Day Care Reforms - in-depth outline of all of the reforms.
- Day Care Funding Reforms - gives details on operating allowances and child care subsidies.
- Day Care Licensing Reforms - focuses on staff training, staff:child ratios and drop-in centres.

To receive copies by mail telephone toll-free 1-800-661-9691.

Or ask for brochures at constituency offices of Members of the Legislative Assembly, who will soon receive their copies.

Circling The Wagons

The Happy Trails Wagon Train stopped at the junction of Highways 28 and 41 last Friday noon for their final lunch stop of the five day journey, where the large circle of pioneer style recreational vehicles drew much interest from the occupants of more modern vehicles setting out for the holiday weekend. Watch next week's issue for a wind-up story on the Wagon Train.

A WORLD OF OPPORTUNITY

It's a changing world. And AGT is changing with it.

We will soon be operating as an investor owned corporation with publicly-traded shares. Although we'll no longer be Alberta Government Telephones, our customers will still know our telecommunications operations as AGT, as they have for the past 84 years.

In addition, because AGT is one of a family of subsidiary companies, we are adopting a new umbrella name, to encompass the whole family.

That name is TELUS Corporation. Under this new corporate name, investors can participate in a growing, worldwide telecommunications corporation, which includes the AGT our customers have always known. The TELUS family also includes NovAtel Communications, Alta Telecom International, Alta Telecom Inc., Alta-Can Telecom, AGT Cellular, and AGT Directory.

Tomorrow's a new world. And we're evolving to serve Albertans even better.
